NATURAL CAPITAL
CONSULTING

Independent Resource Economists

About us

Natural Capital Consulting (Pty) Ltd is a distinctive resource economic development and commercial consulting company, based in South Africa.

We provide a comprehensive range of professional resource economic services to support long-term sustainability for all aspects of business and development. Our approach combines in-depth knowledge of the financial, economic, environmental, institutional, social and cultural environments in the regions in which we work.

How we are different

We are familiar with the challenges of complex problem solving in fluctuating economic and natural resource environments.

We provide a unique mix of skills, knowledge and experience in understanding natural capital and its impact on revenue streams and long-term sustainability. As a result we are able to support our clients in realising their potential, both responsibly and sustainably.

Clients and projects

Our global reach and flexible approach allows us to provide services to clients, wherever they are located in the world.

We do work for the private sector across a broad spectrum of industries and resources, including mining, agriculture, water and biodiversity. We provide solutions-orientated services for financial institutions, regulatory and government agencies, international development agencies, parastatal organisations, non-government organisations and various corporate clients.

Our unique approach

We are an independent natural capital consultancy, owned and led by the directors with no bias towards or vested interests in the research outcomes.

We are committed to delivering scientific excellence and reliable solutions-orientated services to our clients, to safeguard the sustainability of the natural capital on which their revenue streams depend.

Our approach allows for:

- ⊙ Flexibility
- ⊙ Partnerships
- ⊙ Shared knowledge and learning
- ⊙ Sustainability

Our team

We employ a core team of full-time resource economists and source additional expert specialists from the company's network, for major multi-disciplinary projects.

Our team of professionals is led by the founding CEO, who has over 20 years of resource economic research experience on assignments in Southern Africa and beyond.

What is Natural Capital?

Natural capital refers to the natural asset-base on which both business sustainability and human-well-being depend. The depletion of our natural capital base poses a risk to the long-term sustainability of business operations and human welfare. Natural capital underpins our financial systems, our economic systems, our business systems, our social and cultural systems, and the health and well-being of human life. In short, natural capital encompasses the renewable goods, non-renewable goods and environmental services that nature provides.

Understanding and valuing natural capital provides the potential to reconcile economic, environmental and social interests through development and growth.

Natural Capital Consulting (Pty) Ltd aims to provide solutions that prevent this natural capital from being depleted in order to ensure and sustain future business streams and development success.
